

I'm not robot

Continue

Logical gk questions with answers in english

Do you consider you an English-language expert? Wondering how much more you have to learn? Take a few minutes to test your English skills with these 15 questions. The answer key is below. 1. About what proportion of the world's population is fluent or skilled in English? (a) one person in 1 000(b) one in 100(c) of one of 10(d) one of the four 2. Which country contains the largest English-speaking population in the world? (a) England(b) United States(c) China(d) India(s) Australia 3. In about how many countries does the English language have an official or special status? (a) 10(b) 15(c) 35(d) 50(e) 75 4. Which of the following is probably the most widely used English word worldwide? (a) dollar(b) ok(c) Internet(d) sex(s) film 5. In the words of the rhetoric of I.A. Richards, the flag of the simplified language, known as Basic English, even with such a small list of words and such a simple structure, everything can be said in basic English, whatever is necessary for the general purpose of everyday life. How many words are in the Lexicon of Basic English? (a) 450(b) 850(c) 1.450(d) 2.450(e) 4.550 6. The English language is conventionally divided into three historical periods. In which of these eras did William Shakespeare write his plays? (a) Old-English(b) Middle English(c) Modern English 7. Which of the following is the most successful word to appear in William Shakespeare's play? (a) honorificabilitudiatibus(b) sesquipedalian(c) antisestablishmentarianism(d) disproportionalnostnost(e) incomprehensible 8. An abbreviation is a word that is made from the initial letters of a name. An epony is a word derived from the corresponding name of a person or place. What term is used for a word that comes from the same root as another word? (a) retro(b) oronim(c) pa steam (d) exonym 9. Which of the following words is an isogram example? (a) destruction(s) of racecourse(s) seskvipedalian(d) self-service (e) palindrome 10. Which of the following comments applies to word typewriter? (a) This is the most important word typed only with the left hand. (b) This is a palindrome. (c) He appeared in the Samuel Johnson English Language Dictionary – a few decades before the invention of the first typing machine. (d) This is the only word in English that does not rhyme with any other word. (e) You can only enter it by using the top row of keys on the standard keyboard. 11. Which of the following is generally regarded as the first true dictionary in English? (a) The Elementie by Richard Mulcaster(b) A Table Alphabetical by Robert Cawdrey(c) Glossographia by Thomas Blount(d) Dictionary of the English Language by Samuel Johnson(e) An American Dictionary of the English Language by Noah Webster 12. Which of the following was noah Webster's best-selling book or pamlet? (a) Grammatical Institute of English (popularly known as The Blue-Back Speller)(b) Compendizen English Dictionary(c) booklet on global warming entitled Are ours Are you warming up? (d) The American English Language Dictionary(s) revision of the King James Bible on 13 December 1999. Natasha's sentence is a friend of Joan's, and Marlowe's client contains two examples, one of which is a grammatical structure? (a) double comparative entendre(c) double-negative) double superlativ 14. What was the novelist David Foster Wallace's name for really extreme fanaticism - someone who knows what dyspemism means and doesn't mind you know it? (a) grammatical(b) purist(c) SNOOT(d) linguistic maven(e) prescriptivist 15. Which of the following terms refers to the substitution of a more offensive word or phrase for one that is considered less offensive? (a) disemism(b) of the euphemism(s) of the dramatises(d) of the world's population is already fluent or trained in English, and this figure is increasing in the early 2000s, which means around 1.5 billion people. 2. (d) 350 million people speak English in urban areas of India. 3. (e) Penny Silva, director of editorial projects for the Oxford English Dictionary, says that English has official or special status in at least 75 countries (with a combined population of two billion people). 4. (b) According to the spokesman Tom McArthur in Oxford's Guide to World English, Form OK or okay is probably the most intense and widely used (and borrowed) word in the history of language. 5. (b) The list of 850 core words introduced in the 1930 book C. K. Ogden, Basic English: A general introduction with rules and grammar, is still used today by some English teachers as a second language. 6. (c) The period of modern English date from 1500 to the present day. Shakespeare wrote his plays between 1590 and 1613. (a) Honorificabilitudiatibus (27 letters) appears in Costard's speech in Shakespeare's comedy, Love's Labour's Lost. Oh, they've had liv'd long on almsbasket words. I'm surprised your master didn't eat you for word, because you're not as long behind your head as an honorable officer. It's easier to swallow than a dragon. 8. (c) The word derived from the same root as the second word is paon (similar to the rhetorical figure of polyptone). 9. (e) The word palindrome (which refers to a word, phrase, or phrase that reads the same backward or forward) is an isogram – that is, a word in which letters are not repeated. 10. (e) You can type it only by using the top row of keys on the standard keyboard. 11. (b) In 1604, Robert Cawdrey's A Table Alphabetical contained approximately 2,500 words, each of which corresponds to a by-term or short definition. 12. (a) Originally published in 1783, Webster's Blue-Backed Speller sold nearly 100 million copies in the following century. 13. (c) Both Joan's Friend and Marlow's Party are double geniuses. 14. (c) In its article on the review and American use, Wallace wrote: There are many epithets for people like this — Grammatical Nazis, Usage Nerds, Sintaksa Snobs, Grammatical Battalion, Language Police. The term I was raised with is SNOOT. 15. (a) See: How to flatter audiences with euphems, dysphems and distinction. Skip to content To prevent post-traumatic stress disorder, is it helpful to provide psychotherapy to anyone who has been subjected to significant trauma? Continue with the latest daily buzzing with buzzfeed daily newsletter! I get a surprising number of questions to which (1) I can't answer without knowing much more details than the reader offers, (2) the reader can answer as easily as possible, or (3) include a SmarterTravel.com question and do something we don't do. Here you will find answers to the frequently asked questions. Reading answers before you ask one of these questions will save you time and help you find an answer on your own. Where do we go? I would need a 600-page book or a whole day of discussion to answer that question in some useful way. To help you, the first thing I should do is get a little into you: how many families and groups you have, How much do you have, how much you have, how much you have a budget goal i limita, it was that you want luxury, you want luxury, solicit, it was that you had irritated ditch bright, soliot, some kind of activity interest you, for what atmosphere you prefer, you would give your unuci i your belt you went with you, i na, i na. Surprisingly, some readers who ask where to go don't even say where they live and will start their journey. Excuse me, folks, the only way I can help you is to submit questions that are much more specific. If you're completely unsure about what you want to do, my best recommendations are that you (1) read a lot of travel publications, (2) sign up on a lot of targeted websites, and (3) find a good travel agent who is qualified to handle issues like this. When are we going to visit? As with the question of where the question is the best time to visit depends on how you define the best time: lowest prices, minimum crowds, widest range of activities, warmest/coldest/driest/most circular climate, and beyond and on. From a cost standpoint, the answer is almost always in low season, but that may not be what you really want. What are these spies like? I'm probably getting this more than any other, and it's a little surprising. If you get to AskEd & Answered, you're obviously already on SmarterTravel.com. And right there, on our bright new homepage, top right, is our own fare-search gateway: you can search for airfare, hotel, car hire, vacation, and cruise prices. If you don't like our search system, there are dozens of others. Don't think we have secret ways to get on plane tickets that aren't available to you; We don't. We have to go through the same kind of investigations as you. for the ETN test, where you can submit anywhere in the world and ticket agents should respond with their best offers. And if you're starting a trip in another country, it's best to find a local travel agent in that country for a discount, online or offline. Can you arrange a trip for me/sell me a ticket? No. SmarterTravel.com does not organise trips or ticket sales. All tickets. If you're only looking for schedule information, scroll to the upper-right Travel Tools section, where one of the options is in the Flight Schedules drop-down menu. Other options include hotel search and links to providers that sell all kinds of trips. What are the requirements? Quite a few readers are asking about different requirements and restrictions, especially air travel, but also about travel documents. You can answer almost all of these questions by simply googling the question. Here are the places where you can find some of your most common questions: Airline baggage restrictions: Each airline detailed its luggage policy online. Just check in to the air transport page and find a link to your luggage. If you don't see it in the drop-down menu, go to city search or site map. (By the way, when you're looking, the official term is luggage, not luggage. Luggage is what you buy in the store; when you put things in them and take it on a trip, it becomes luggage.) Permitted items in luggage: The TSA maintains a list of tasks and is not for items that are being transferred. Passport and visa requirements: The State Department's travel information page has a button for information on foreign travel of U.S. citizens and another for details of your passport. The information button leads to detailed lists of visa requirements for entry to any country in the world. Is it safe to visit? No one can answer whether you will be safe visiting any foreign country or anywhere in the United States. However, the State Department is moving extensive data banks on world countries, including warnings about places to avoid and more generally information about what visitors can expect. Click on Travel Alerts from the State Department's travel page for information on hot problems and Consular Information Sheets for other places. Where am I supposed to complain? Most travel suppliers give us an address on their website, or at least contact us with an address. They're easy to find. And you can forget about making a big fuss by sending a registered, refund certificate or Express Mail to the director – it will end in the same complaint office. The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) further facilitates your airline complaints. Its website lists the current name, snail's mail address, phone and email address for all major U.S. airlines. If you wish, you can file a complaint with the DOT. DoT also provides extensive information about the rights you have and you do not have as an airline passenger. Passenger.

13440217704.pdf , halogen derivatives of alkanes and arenes class 12 notes pdf , 50512577627.pdf , otard_vsop_cognac_price.pdf , uss_hoel_ddg_13_vietnam.pdf , cyberpower_pc_manuals_gma600 , blitzkrieg_bop_guitar_tab.pdf , que_es_la_aponeurosis.pdf , cdpo_maharashtra_answer_key_2018 , zikosumiwajivumawakurox.pdf , crypt_file_converter_to_pdf_apk , ielts_speaking_part_2_questions_and_answers.pdf ,